Gregg's Good News

Let's celebrate the wondrous work God did through the Clothing Giveaway this year. Glory to Him!

In spite of street closures on the first and fourth day of the event, we still counted 1,063 who came through to take clothes.

Most of those people were invited to church, some were prayed for on the spot, others received an extra word of counsel or an above and beyond act of service.

Participation from a sizable percentage of the congregation is laudable as well. Setting up structures, processing clothes, meeting people and all the other necessary actions were accomplished by people from all age groups over many weeks. But help during the event was especially good this year.

Extra thanks to the people who supplied snacks and the family who went out of their way to give us Saturday lunch!

PM PREVIEW TONIGHT: There will not be a 5:00 meeting at the church building tonight. All are invited to work at UCC Clean-Up this afternoon and evening.

Ladies' Bible Class begins Tuesday September 8th at 10:30am at Circle. Speak with Geri York for more information.

Today is the annual UCC cleaning day. The college students, Josh and I will be at the UCC from right after services until 7pm. If you have time and would like to bless the ministry, we would love to have you come.

Why send your kids to a Christian camp? One benefit for some parents is to have a free week to get things done. For others it is the hope that they will learn something about God and being a disciple. The power of Round Lake Christian Camp is that every camper is encouraged to be a servant. They serve in many different ways during the week. I especially like the fact that this year EVERY high school guy led some part of a devotional during the week. For some it was their first time praying in front of people. For others it was their first time speaking. There two encouraging observations I made when the high school cabin lead. First, I loved the encouragement from Jesse Bracht and Jacob Hammar to convince every guy in the cabin to lead something. Second, I loved the growth from some of the guys who led last year and commented on how much easier it was this year because their confidence had grown. I was reminded of this when Jesse led singing a couple weeks ago. Praise God we are a church that encourages the next generation to lead.

While shopping for school supplies, pick up some extra items and we will make sure they are shared with local children who need them. Bring them no later than September 2nd.

Table with 2 columns: Category and Amount. Sunday Morning Attendance: 149; Last Week's Contribution: $3,833.50; Year to Date Weekly Average: $4,583.59; Weekly Budget: $4,400.00
