Gregg's Good News

This morning, I am scheduled to preach at Keizer Church of Christ. At a date in the future, Howard Jones will come and preach here to complete the trade.

It is good to have a morning with Keizer church for two reasons. First, many people who have grown up through our church and Campus Ministry are now at Keizer. I will be glad to greet them and encourage them to keep serving. Second, Keizer church has been a faithful financial supporter of our Campus Ministry for decades. This visit will afford me the opportunity to both thank them for their participation and point to the outcome of their investment—members who are active servants.

Another outcome of me being in Keizer is that Josh Stutzman is preaching here today. As soon as I heard about the Keizer possibility, I realized it opened the door for me to coach Josh on his preaching. During the school year, it is harder for Josh to make time, but I was excited to mentor him. And having a concrete “outlet” for the mentoring makes the coaching much more real.

Listen well this morning and give Josh ample encouragement. I know that Josh has studied well and worked diligently to listen to God’s word so that he can bring a solid, Biblical sermon to you. I am very thankful that we are a church that recognizes the value of creating training opportunities for people. I am also thankful for people like Josh who are interested in being trained in ways that will enhance their Christian service throughout a lifetime.
