Gregg's Good News

I've seen several articles in recent months reporting that a high percentage of American workers end the year with many vacation days left unused. What's most interesting about those articles, is the fact they typically make the case that after a break—productivity of the workers is much higher.

Pam and I enjoyed a few days hiking in Canyonlands and Arches National Parks of Utah as well as in the Colorado Rockies. (My legs are almost done being sore. We traversed a lot of miles; and some of the trails were steep enough we had to climb them like stairs.) We also spent several nights with her brother and sister-in-law in Denver. (Plus one day featured a big afternoon nap while it snowed outside.)

Back in the office for a couple days, I am discovering that several tasks are taking less time to accomplish than they usually do. It seems the "productivity gain" is working for me also.

What's the point of all this?

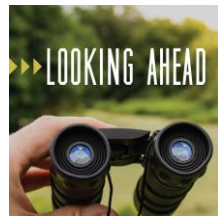

On Sunday, Oct. 1, my sermon included thoughts about Jesus' words, "Come to me and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn from me." When we take on Jesus' yoke, kingdom life includes work in His name. But one point that echoed extra strongly in my ears was to imitate God's pattern of work hard, then rest. My recent experience confirms the wisdom of God's schedule. I hope you can weave that pattern into your life; and that we can help the yearly church calendar imitate God's model as well.

It's the season to start tuning up your voice for Sing-A-Long. The first rehearsal is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 29 at 5:00 pm.

Pam and I are out of town for a Grandbaby event today. I plan to be back in the office on Oct. 18.

Once a month, on the second Monday, some ministers from valley churches gather together to eat China Buffet and enjoy a teaching. It is a good time of fellowship, hearing what sister churches are doing and being encouraged by the teaching of a minister. Last week, we heard Howard Jones, the associate minister at Keizer Church of Christ, share insights from Mark 9. Howard shared the irony of the apostles' inability to heal the boy with the evil spirit and then, in v38, telling another man to stop doing what they couldn't. How often do we judge others quickly because they are not one of us? Wouldn't it be better if we focused on doing good and doing God's will ourselves? Let God take care of judging the others.

So I'm thankful that Circle cares for visitors through meals after worship. I'm excited to see what God will do with all of our Friendspeak readers and how blessed we are to have so many of you as tutors. We are being faithful to the vision Gregg shared with us to "Change the World by Communicating Christ from Corvallis to the Continents."

Today is the last Sunday to decide if you are coming on Fall Retreat with us. Fall Retreat is NEXT WEEKEND. Sign up with Josh or myself if you want to come. The cost is $50.
