Gregg's Good News

WELCOME: If you came to our Sing-A-Long last evening and decided to return for worship, we want to extend a double welcome your way. Thank you for choosing to honor God with us this morning. In addition, this is the Sunday just before Finals for college students. It's good that you set aside time in this season of concentrated study to praise the Lord. May he grant you ample peace and clear thinking for these "testing" days ahead.

CELEBRATING WORKS OF SERVICE: The following quote is from a Christmas card written by Christian Relief Fund's leader, Milton Jones, to Circle church. "What a great blessing you are to CRF and to me. Because of your generosity amazing things have happened. Kids have been fed and educated. Water wells have been dug. Churches have been planted. Hurricane victims have been graced with hope. And children have been saved. Thanks a trillion! Love, Milt"

COMING IN DECEMBER: I have been working on a Mentoring Series that I plan to present beginning on Sunday evening, Dec. 17. The focus is "Stress." Perhaps right during the middle of holiday and end of year busyness, we can discover ways to catch our breath and be renewed.

PM PREVIEW TONIGHT: 5:00 pm: Stump the Preacher

We will pool our "smarts" to answer questions from previous weeks.

How do you decide what is right versus wrong and good versus bad? Is it based on experience or a feeling? What is the foundation for choosing what action to take?

This course engages these questions as we explore the foundations for moral decision making and ethical theory in Western Civilization and Christianity. We will also study significant ethical issues in contemporary society including: biotechnology, beginning and ending life, punishment, war and peace, gender roles, sexuality, marriage, social justice, environmental ethics, animal rights and cyberethics.

Time: Tuesdays & Thursdays, 5:15-7:15pm (First class is January 9th)

Instructor: Jason Swick

Cost: $30 for credit, $50 audit

Counts for PHL 205 or 206 (or a similar OSU course)
