Gregg's Good News

People are not God. Yet there are moments when human actions suggest otherwise.

Note the adulation given to various "stars" and musicians. Some love and worship those humans more than they adore God. That gives those "influencers" an undue amount of power to shape the beliefs and convictions of their followers. But does fame give a person more insight to right, wrong and ethics than you? The obvious answer: "No." Then why are their opinions given so much weight?

A man's Granddaughter came to a church event, only to have another teenage girl make a discouraging remark. The Granddaughter never returned to church.

Clearly, the teenage girl should not have spoken as she did. But we must recognize that the church is made up of people who are all "works in progress". As a result, mistakes will be made. Wrong words will be said. Sights will occur. People are not God.

At one point in life, I allowed the imperfect actions of people to influence my view of Christianity. A few years later, I decided that never again would I allow a human to come between God and me. The gift of relationship with God is too important to give a fallible "work in progress" person and any of their actions the power to end my relationship with Christ, church, and eternal destiny.

Well Offering
June 23rd

1655 NW Monroe Ave, Corvallis, OR 97330 osucc.com

These past weeks have been emotionally challenging for me. Losing my Grandmother was tough (see last week's article), but I was expecting the grief. Saying goodbye on Graduate Sunday to Lucas and Hitomi who have both been faithful to our program and good friends was an unexpected challenge. I realized this is something I must face every year as a Campus Minister. However, on the positive side, it looks like we have at least 5 new super freshmen coming whom I predict will be rising leaders in UCC, and that fills me with joy. These words from Jack Jonson's song "If I could" seemed fitting:

"Down the middle drops one more grain of sand
They say that new life makes losing life easier to understand.
Words are kind, they help ease the mind.
I miss my old friend and though you gotta go, we'll keep a piece of your soul.
One goes out, one comes in."
