Gregg's Good News

After several months of anticipation, it is a delight to welcome the Pruett family to Corvallis. Thomas, Amy, Madison, Mitchell, Matthew and Moriah arrived in Corvallis on Wednesday. They were met by a sizable contingent of Circle folks who helped them begin the process of getting settled.

Once the family has some days to catch their breath and settle in, I am looking forward to sitting down with Thomas. On Sundays in the future, you can expect to hear Thomas and I share the preaching. In addition, we'll be sharing insights to the transition as we continue to sort out details. Please be prayerful for both of our families in this new chapter of God's work through Circle Church of Christ.

Changing the World by Communicating Christ: From Corvallis to the Continents

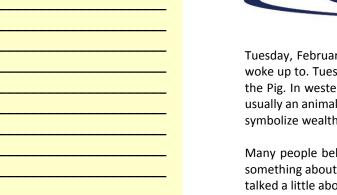

God brought this statement to my mind a few years ago. Since that time, it has been encouraging to see your willingness to welcome and share the Word with many people from other countries.

Take a look around the congregation this morning. You will see that God is increasingly making us a multi-cultural congregation.

While conflict between nations and their ideologies seems to always be a fact of life in this world, the solution continues to be the same it has been for centuries. As people choose to come under the Lordship of Christ, common ground becomes possible and former enemies become family. That type of world changing is needed now.

Tuesday, February 5th, 2019, was an important day, and not because of the snow we woke up to. Tuesday was the first day of a brand new year, the first day of the Year of the Pig. In western culture, pigs are thought of as dirty, overweight, and smelly-not usually an animal someone wants to be associated with. But in the Chinese zodiac, pigs symbolize wealth, treasure, and generosity, among other things.

Many people believe that the year, season, month or day they are born determines something about them or their life. During our study in Revelation on Tuesday, we also talked a little about these things. We concluded that only God is in control. He knew us the moment we were conceived and he knew the day we would be born, and none of the circumstances surrounding our birth have any power to affect us or our lives. Some people live their lives based on what their horoscope tells them every day, but we have a superior source of knowledge to guide us: the living Word of God.
