The Gift of Humility

On behalf of the staff and leadership of Circle, I want to first off wish to you and your family a Merry Christmas and wonderful holiday week. I know that for many people this is their favorite time of the year, and I pray that it is indeed the most wonderful time of the year. I also pray for and with you if these holiday times are not joyous or wonderful, but the opposite. Know that we see you, pray for you, and wish to do all we can to help you get through this time of year the best you can. May God be obvious to all of us this and every week.

I often say whatever passage I'm studying is my favorite, but a passage that is constantly on my mind is Philippians 2:1-11. Feel free to quickly look it up, I can wait a moment...got it? In short, Paul defines humility in vss. 3 and 4 – doing nothing out of selfish ambition or conceit, but valuing others above yourselves, looking only to the interests of others. Christ embodies this by deciding His equality with God wasn't something to be held onto or taken advantage of, but emptied Himself by becoming a man. Now, many of us know this passage, but many of us, me included, miss some of the best ways to show our humility.

We all are busy, but we probably find time to go to a restaurant, out for coffee or tea, and hopefully come to services. The question is this: how often does our schedule, our goals, our day, take priority over those around us? How often have we neglected taking the time to invest a Kingdom moment in a cashier, barista, or server because we need to focus on our stuff? How often have we missed an opportunity to encourage or pray for someone on Sunday morning because we need to get to our seat, or get to our seat at the restaurant, or because we don't want to possibly be burdened with someone's problems that day? How many moments do we miss a day because we don't intentionally put others' interests before our own, like getting our breakfast or coffee or simply getting to the next thing?

Jesus' ministry was powerful because He understood the power of making those around Him be heard, cared for, and seen. In other words, He understood the empowerments of truly being humble towards those around Him. He looked for those moments and showed God in them. We would do well to do the same. Grace to you.

As many of you know, I am blessed to be a homeowner now. In my daily reading, I came across this verse—a good reminder to avoid materialism: “Do not trust in extortion or put vain hope in stolen goods; though your riches increase, do not set your heart on them” (Psalm 62:10). Now, for the record, I did not gain my house through extortion or stolen goods, but the last part of the verse is very applicable. My house is a wonderful gift from God. It is a clean, peaceful place where I can study and rest. Every night, I come home for an hour of peace, something I have not experienced for the past 15 years. It’s also a good investment—the market in Corvallis is historically stable; owning a house here makes me feel secure.

However, I must not "set my heart" on my house, my heart must belong to God. The heavy rains are a reminder that my house could be destroyed by a flood. A tree could fall through the roof. I could go broke and have to sell the property. True peace, joy and security are found only in God. This verse was a good reminder for me not to trust in material possessions and set my heart on them. Merry Christmas everyone!
