2 Peter 1:3-11, NIV

His divine power has given us everything we need for a godly life through our knowledge of him who called us by his own glory and goodness. Through these he has given us his very great and precious promises, so that through them you may participate in the divine nature, having escaped the corruption in the world caused by evil desires. For this very reason, make every effort to add to your faith goodness; and to goodness, knowledge; and to knowledge, self-control; and to self-control, perseverance; and to perseverance, godliness; and to godliness, mutual affection; and to mutual affection, love. For if you possess these qualities in increasing measure, they will keep you from being ineffective and unproductive in your knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. But whoever does not have them is nearsighted and blind, forgetting that they have been cleansed from their past sins. Therefore, my brothers and sisters, make every effort to confirm your calling and election. For if you do these things, you will never stumble, and you will receive a rich welcome into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

I’m in Lobster Valley this week but I got to chat with Brian Levitt and it looks like he has an awesome sermon today coming from Matthew 20:1-16, the parable of the late workers in the vineyard. (Spoiler Alert!) His message is about focusing on your personal mission/role in the Church and not focusing too much on what other people are doing.

I thought about this for my own life. How often do I get grumpy about that student who only comes once a month? How much time and emotional energy do I waste worrying about my cousin who is dating a non-Christian? How often do I ruminate on rude comments people have made toward me in the past? What a waste of time! It would be much more productive to text that wayward student an invitation, set up a Bible study with my cousins boyfriend or try to reconcile with that rude person. And why don’t we do that? 1) Fear of failure. 2) Fear of hard work. Let’s focus on changing the things we can change and accepting the things we can’t change.
