We pray for Sarah Giboney, in the hospital with a sepsis infection, that she will recover and be able to go home soon.

Please continue to pray for Rob Hartley, that his medical tests will have positive outcomes.

We pray for Les Brooks, who is having a CAT scan today (1/10), that no problems will be found.

Physical:

Please be praying every week for all of our widows, widowers, elderly people and shut-ins.

Pray for strength for Gregg to persevere with projects and trust God to shape his life as he ponders the future.

We pray for everyone travelling, and are mindful of the Parsons family as they come back to OR from HI.

Spiritual:

Pray for us to have that fruit of the Spirit which is peace--internal and external peace.

From The Desk Of Tom & Maria Zhang

As of today, we are officially halfway through the first month of 2022! How are you doing on your New Year's Resolutions?

Maybe you are not one of the 39% of Americans who made a resolution this year, but perhaps you did, and according to Statista's Global Community Survey, chances are it was either to Exercise More, Eat Healthier, or Lose Weight. Another survey showed that by this point in January, 64% of those people are well on their way to abandoning their goal (much to the relief of regular gym members who suddenly find their favorite treadmill open again).

While reading the Bible wasn't listed on that national survey, from experience, I know that is one goal that Christians often make at the beginning of the year. In fact, if you do a Google search for "Read the Bible in a Year" you can get more than 754,000,000 results. This is a very worthy goal for a follower of Christ, yet many of us get behind in our reading, which causes us to become overwhelmed and disappointed, and then we give up. I am no exception to this, which is why I recommend ditching the Bible reading plan in favor of a Bible reading checklist.

A Bible reading checklist is a simple visual method to help you keep track of all the Bible reading you do, whether it be in Bible class, during worship service, while reading with your kids, or during your morning quiet time. There are no dates assigned, no prescribed reading order, and no minimum amount to be read daily; but every time a box is checked off, it gives you a little sense of accomplishment and encourages you to keep going. This method has helped me in my desire to become more consistent in my scripture reading more than any other goal or plan. The first time I read completely through the Bible, it took me three years, and rather than feeling disappointed in the amount of time that it took, I felt proud of my accomplishment!

So, if you would like to join me in reading your way through the Bible this year(s), then pick up a Reading Check-List in the foyer or click HERE if you're reading a digital copy of the bulletin. I wish you many blessings as you strive to make God's Word a part of your daily life.

Hey everyone, I have two requests 1) Pray for the college students, we are on our Oregon Young Adults Retreat. Young adults from all over the state are praising God together right now.

2) Remember to sign up to cook for our Tuesday Night Campus Ministry Dinners. We still have a lot of openings due to Christmas travels and snow days. So please sign up—it really does help people come to know Jesus. The dinners are every Tuesday of the term starting at 6:30 pm. We have 2 vegetarians, so most cooks have been cooking something where meat can be added or removed, like tacos or baked potatoes. You can sign up the old fashioned way by the mailboxes at church, or you can sign up on the google document online. Just scan this QR code with your smart phone camera, and it will take you right there!
